Appomattox And Buckingham

These two counties constitute the Legislative district now represented by Hon. J. R. Horsley of Appomattox, who has held the position for four years—two terms.

Appomattox Democrats feel that it is only fair to Buckingham to concede to her the right to name the delegate to succeed Mr. Horsley this time.

At a conference of prominent Democrats from all sections of Buckingham county held at Dillwyn on March 16th, several available and popular gentlemen were considered as possible candidates and as a result of the conference Mr. J. Horace White was asked to become a candidate. We notice that he has announced his candidacy, subject to the action of the Democratic primary to be held on August 4th. Mr. White is a young practicing attorney of Buckingham and those who have known him from his childhood speak in the highest terms of his character and ability. He will make frequent visits to Appomattox and our people will see and hear from him during the campaign.

Personally it will be our pleasure to support him in his aspirations.

It is announced that Mayor of Dillwyn, Glaude Wood, will also be a candidate. He is a son of Chairman Wood of the Board of Supervisors of Buckingham and a practicing attorney of the Buckingham bar.

The Line Of Attack On Fees

The fee system could be reformed, of course, in any desired manner if the people of Virginia would make the issue and would elect the general assembly on it.

But the people have not done this. Only those who have studied the state government will join in an agitation and will appear before the legislature in behalf of any measure that promises betterment. They will be met by a perfectly organized coalition of clerks, treasurers, sheriffs, and commissioners of the revenue, which can bring to bear on each member of the general assembly the pressure of four or more of the most powerful politicians of his county. Every fee-officer knows his representative; most fee-officers helped to name the men who speak for their county in the house and in the senate. There are no gaps in the organization. There are no members of either chamber who cannot be reached, except in the rare instances where the lawmakers were chosen over the opposition of the courthouse rings.

This is the most formidable coalition in Virginia politics. In what possible way can it be met and worsted by a company of reformers who are not politicians and do not have behind them an aroused public opinion? In one way only, it seems to The News Leader. That is by drawing for each legislator a sharp line between what he should do for his county and what he is asked to do for the fee-officers. Stated a little differently, the line of approach must be such as to put on the member of the general assembly a positive duty to his constituents and to make it impossible for him to listen to fee-officers because he must serve the people of his county instead. The appeal must be to his larger allegiance.

This is why The News Leader has concluded that the most important and most practical step in the reform of the fee-system is to introduce a bill giving the county or the city the right to say what compensation it will grant a fee-officer for the service he renders it. If the county wishes to pay the fee-officer a lower commission than now is allowed him, why should it not be privileged to do so? If it desires to put him on a salary and cover the fees into the local treasury, why not? The principle, surely, is one of self-government. And how can a member of the legislature fail to acknowledge that principle? He might not be willing to vote for a reform of the fee-system on any other basis; can he decline to vote for it when it means a saving of money to his constituents, a return to them of powers that never should have been taken from them?—The News Leader.

Better Than Cross Words

There is a new game just started which threatens to jar the popularity of cross word puzzles. It's called "Broadway Niffties". The daily New York American is giving away gorgeous "Sunshine" Easter Hats and pairs of theatre tickets for the best Broadway shows for the readers who write the best "niffties" and the idea is running like wildfire. There are nearly fifty attractions playing at the New York theatres. Take the titles of these shows and twist them into a snappy little story or a reasonable sentence. It's a fascinating game. The daily New York American gives you full details about the Easter hat and theatre ticket awards.

STATE CAPITAL

Tourists Causing Trouble.

Richmond.—

Considerable trouble is being experienced by the State Motor Vehicle Department on account of tourists from Florida endeavoring to travel through the State with only temporary tourist tags, from which the expiration date has been removed, Commissioner James M. Hayes, Jr., announced. Many of the tags are issued by the State of Florida for a period of two months only and motorists are pulling out the inserted expiration date tag from their license plates and causing much work in the enforcement of license laws.

The commissioner also declared that his department would immediately inaugurate a campaign to enforce the regulation against license plates being obscured by bumpers and other things. He said that Virginia tourists in Maryland, for example, are promptly arrested for not having their license properly visible. This strict enforcement is just and easily practicable in Maryland, he said, because the State has a larger force for enforcement, smaller territory and a much smaller number of automobiles registered there.

Section 2131 of Chapter 50 of the Code of Virginia provides that "each plates shall always be in evidence upon the front and rear of the machines and view of same shall not be obscured by dirt, grease, bumper, tire, threshold or any other substance or object." The penalty for violation shall be not less than $2.50 fine or imprisonment in jail of from five to thirty days or both. Tags on the front of machines are more frequently obscured by bumpers, Mr. Hayes said.

Districting such as prevails in other States and a force adequate to strict enforcement of the provisions of the law would make the identification of stolen cars practically certain before they could get out of the State, Mr. Hayes declared.

Higher Rate On Coal Denied.

Increases in rates on coal from Southwestern Virginia mines were denied by the State Corporation Commission, which, in a decision handed down, refused a revision of the rates as requested by the carriers of coal from that territory. Petitioners were: the Southern Railway, Interstate Railroad Company, The Carolina, Clinchfield and Ohio Railway and the Norfolk and Western.

The increases proposed by the carriers in the requested revision applied from the Pocahontas mines and objection to them was expressed by the Roanoke and Bristol Chambers of Commerce, the Blackwood Coal and Coke Company, General Coal Company and the Roanoke Gas-Light company.

Legion Completes Endowment Drive.

L. J. Marcuse has accepted the chairmanship of the speakers' committee for the American Legion endowment fund drive, April 6 to 11, Thomas B. Howell, general chairman for Richmond, announced. R. McC. Bullington and John J. Wicker, Jr., are on the publicity committee, while Henry Schwarzschild is in charge of stunts and features, and Lewis Kaufman the work of equipment. Under the supervision of Mrs. A. P. Wilmer and the local chapters of the American Red Cross luncheons for canvalers workers will be served.

Named Infantry Chief.

Beginning Saturday, Colonel Robert T. Allen, a former Washington and Lee student, will become chief of infantry, with the rank of Major-General, it was announced. Colonel Allen, who is the son of Judge John J. Allen, of Botetourt county, was a student at Washington and Lee University from 1858 to 1892.

Auto License Tags In Excess Of 1924.

About 50,000 more automobile licenses had been issued than for the same date last year, Commissioner James M. Hayes, Jr., of the State motor vehicle department, said the total to date is below 273,000 against less than 220,000 last year.

The commissioner expects at least 320,000 to be issued during this year against about 270,000 for 1924.

Permit To Remodel Murphy's.

The first step toward remodeling of Thomas Murphy's Hotel was taken when Building Inspector Beck issued permit to enlarge a kitchen on the rear of the hotel, on the southeast corner of Eighth and Broad streets, to cost $2,000. Plans are now being prepared for extensive alterations in the first floor and basement of the hotel.

Motor Vehicle Experts To Meet.

Motor vehicle commissioners from the Eastern States and Canada will gather in a two-day conference in Richmond, April 24 and 25, and during their stay will be entertained at the country Club of Virginia and the Jefferson Hotel. Fifty-two delegates are expected.

The City Council Committee on Advertising recommended an appropriation of $950 to help in the entertainment of the visitors at the request of James M. Hayes, Jr., commissioner for Virginia.

At a meeting held in the auditorium Monday evening the committees on votes of the town on incorporation and on charter were received. The vote showed 118 for incorporation and 68 against it. The charter committee presented a tentative paper, which will be discussed and amended at a meeting called for the purpose Monday evening, April 13th. It looks like the town of Appomattox will now be incorporated, and that the Judge will be called on to grant charter and enter order of town election at June term of court. The charter provides that the 35 cents levied for roads in Southside district be put on the town tax tickets and this will result in a loss of about $1000 to the county roads of Southside district. It is contended by the incorporators that many miles of road will be taken over and cared for by the town and that the citizens of the town ought not to be compelled to pay for the up-keep of both. If there be any objections they will be heard at June court when the application for charter will be made by those who have the matter in hand.
